

Water Governance with and for all: is it working?

SAVE THE DATE

— SEMINAR —

thur 29.08.19

SESSION 1

“Water Governance 2.0: Law and accountability”

This session will explore the implication of the ‘informal’ rules or social constructs for the ‘formal’ policies and regulations associated with water governance. Insights on common challenges, as well as practical and implementable approaches, will be explored.

SESSION 2

“Can changing the rules give more equal access?”

This session will present a series of case studies on water governance in South Asia, South America and Africa, to explore practical experiences concerning stakeholder engagement and water sharing practices.

SESSION 3

“Water Governance for all: How to make it work?”

This session will unravel the concept and debate whether approaches to water governance have been effective. Following a key note speech, this session will present some of the water governance methods and practices.
